

Work with Fiwi – For Good Reasons

Are you interested in working at the university? Then, a role as a student assistant at the Chair of Public Economics (Finanzwissenschaft) might be just for you: As a student assistant, you will have the opportunity to work on current research topics, gain insights into course preparation, and broaden your understanding of academic work during your studies.

The Chair of Public Economics deals with the economic activities of the state. Using empirical and experimental methods, we strive for excellent research to foster our understanding of how government actions affect the behavior of individuals and firms.

What does a student assistant do?

Student assistants are an important part of our team, supporting us in scientific research and teaching. This position provides a valuable insight into academic life at the university. Additionally, you will enjoy the convenience of working where you study, allowing flexibility to align with your lectures and seminars. We understand the demands of exam periods and thesis writing, so we offer flexibility in your working hours to accommodate your schedule during exam periods. Moreover, working as a student assistant is the best way to find out whether a career in research aligns with your interests.

Your qualifications:

- Studies of Economics or International Business and Economics.
- Good computer skills (Microsoft Office necessary; Stata / R / Python appreciated).
- Interest in empirical and experimental work.
- Good grades in your studies.

Learn more about our chair and see our website

fiwi.uni-hohenheim.de/en.

Please send your application documents (short cover letter, CV, transcript from HohCampus if available) to verena.christl@uni-hohenheim.de

